AMUSEMENTS

"The Lawyer and the Singing Girl."

The Oregon theater will be opened for the season of 1907-8 tomorrow evening with the production of "The Lawyer and the Singing Girl," by the Streeter-Bryan company, which will present some excellent attractions during the winter months.

The Streeter-Bryan company comes to Pendleton from a 10 weeks' stay in Baker City, and is made up of artists of a first-class order. It will present a selected number of New York successes which have run through the metropolitan theaters during the past season, and the people of Pendleton, while not receiving the Northwest association attractions, will yet be favored with some excellent theatrical numbers by the company which has leased the Oregon theater and which will open the season tomorrow night.

The Star Theater.

The Star theater in the Ferguson building on Main street, continues to attract large crowds every evening, and enjoys an especially large patronage every Saturday afternoon when it gives a matinee. An entire change of program is given on Thursday evenings and this week the famous Kingsley brothers, dancers; James T. Devlin, ventriloquist, and Miss Blair, novelty dancer, are to be seen there. It is a refreshing place to go for an evening's entertainment.

The Dime.

At the Dime moving picture theater on Main street, new and fascinating pictures and fresh, sprightly illustrated songs are the feature every afternoon and evening. It is a delightful place for a few moments amusement and women and children patronize it in large numbers. A complete change of program is given every Sunday, Tuesday and Friday.

The Ireland Skating Rink.

Ireland's skating rink continues to enjoy immense crowds every evening. Since the new mechanical band has been purchased to furnish music for the skaters, the rink has been especially well patronized. This immense combination musical instrument is one of the most popular inventions of the age. The Sunday matinee given every Sunday afternoon at the rink are extremely popular and are well patronized. The rink is conducted in an orderly manner and offers healthful, exhilarating exercise.

RESULTS OF OPEN PLAY.

Fewer Fatalities Reported This Year From Football Injuries.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—With the exception of a few Thanksgiving day games, today marks the end of the college football season for 1907. Thanks to the change in rules and the elimination of much of the rough play, there have been fewer fatalities from the game this year than ever before since the sport became popular in this country. Since the opening of the season the latter part of September nearly a dozen players have died as the result of injuries received on the gridiron, but this number is small as compared with the records in past years. It is noticeable, moreover, that nearly all of the victims were members of scholastic or association teams, only two or three of them belonging to college eleven. No football player among the larger colleges has been killed, though injuries among the players have been common.

The list of the victims to date is as follows:

William O'Brien, 15 years old, of Cortlandt, N. Y., died of hemorrhage of the brain, following injuries received in a school game.

Leonard J. Clarkson, 20 years old, of the Norwich university team, died from injuries received in the game with Dartmouth.

Thomas Bertram, 20 years old, of the Altoona, Pa., Athletic club, died from a kick in the head during a game with the Portage team. Leo Strosmeyer, 16 years old, of Iowa City, Ia., died from a broken back received in a high school game.

Albert Flowers, 16 years old, of Zanesville, O., died from injuries received in a game between the Zanesville high school and Denison University freshmen.

Walter C. Albrecht, 20 years old, of Chicago, died from cerebral hemorrhage, following a game between two association teams.

Arthur Cope, 19 years old, of Sallida, Cal., died from spinal injuries received in a game between the high school teams of Sallida and Leadville.

Richard S. Evans, 19 years old, of Hillsboro, O., died from injuries received in a game between Wonder college and Western Reserve University at Cleveland.

Robert A. Litz, 16 years old, of Jersey City, died from injuries sustained in a game at New Drop, Staten Island.
